Requirements for a Minor in Russian
(Superceded fall 2013)

A minor in Russian may be useful and enriching for students in many disciplines, from Economics and Political Science through Comparative Literature and Theater to Engineering and Mathematics. The 18- to 20-hour program listed below provides considerable flexibility within a general structure. Additional information may be obtained from the undergraduate advisor in the Department of Slavic Languages and Literatures, 3072 Foreign Languages Building.

Required Courses

- Second-year Russian (6-8 hours): RUSS 201 and RUSS 202, or equivalent
- Third-year Russian (3 hours): RUSS 301, 302, or equivalent
- Introduction to Slavic culture (3 hours): UKR 113, SLAV 117, SLAV 120, or similar
- Russian literature (6 hours): two courses at the 200-, 300-, or 400-level

(For complete list of courses, including surveys, author, and topics, see undergraduate advisor)

Total required hours: 18-20 hours